

Now would you believe this..?...?!

There are some things you will never understand.

Like, for example, you may wonder why your best friend suddenly had to move to some faraway place. Or why grownups and children sometimes quarrel. Or why there are so many stars and planets dancing through space. You may never find out, but that's nothing compared to the great secret of love.

Sooner or later it will happen to you and quite often you won't understand it at all, really not at all. You can read all the books in Europe or do no matter what, it will forever be a weird mystery.

Zaven and Camilla know a thing or two about it, because they experienced something very peculiar:

It has been snowing heavily. This is the third time this week, and Zaven has gone to pick up his girlfriend because today at last they are going to make a snowman together. He likes Camilla a lot. Later, when he is big and strong and when he knows and can do everything, he wants to marry her.

Camilla puts on her red jacket and her new hat. Then they go out through the backyard into the snow. Camilla's mother calls her back, because she has forgotten to put on her scarf. She quickly runs back in and a little later she comes out again, this time with a scarf wrapped twice around her neck.

They walk to the garden gate, where the meadow starts.

Everything is white.
